Chronology
Oct. 27, 2000  Veterans History Project created by United States Congress through Public Law 106-380, calling upon the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress to collect and preserve audio-taped and video-taped oral histories, along with documentary materials such as letters, diaries, maps, photographs and home movies of America's war veterans and those who served in support of them. Five of America's major twentieth century wars are included: World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam, and the Persian Gulf War.

Oct. 2001  Nashville Public Library becomes the first institution in the state of Tennessee to join the Veterans History Project as a local partner. The Special Collections Division of the Nashville Public Library will serve as the main repository for materials collected locally as part of this project, although information about project participants is forwarded to the Library of Congress.

Fall 2001  William Dees serves as Veterans History Project Coordinator, NPL.
Jan. 2002  Special Collections Division receives its first donation of materials for the project from the family of Morris Levine.
Mar. 2002  Linda Barnickel begins serving as Veterans History Project Coordinator, NPL.
Mar. 3, 2002  First interviews conducted for the project.
Early 2002  Formal planning and infrastructure for the project developed, volunteers recruited for interviewing and transcription activities.
Nov. 2002  Formal collecting policy for the project approved.
Jan. 25, 2003  “Veterans’ Voices” event held at NPL to highlight the first year of the Project, including a month-long exhibit.
Spring 2003  Segment focusing on Korean War veterans begins.
May 22, 2003  Tennessee Crossroads, broadcast on Nashville Public Television, features a segment on NPL’s Veterans History Project.
Summer 2003  Informal partnership begun with Operation Stand Down, a local agency dedicated to assisting veterans who are homeless or who have been homeless.
Fall 2003  Segment concentrating on diversity begins, to include African-American, Jewish, and other racial and ethnic minority veterans, female veterans, and other groups underrepresented in the collection thus far, such as unusual military occupations and members of the Coast Guard and Merchant Marine, with emphasis on World War II and Korea.
Nov. 1, 2003  Partnering with students from Dr. Rhonda Collier’s English class at Lipscomb University, and with VHP volunteers, interviews are conducted at the annual fall event, “Operation Stand Down” with veterans who are homeless or who have been homeless.
May 24 to May 27, 2004  Several items from NPL’s collections are featured in the exhibit, “From the Home Front and the Front Lines” at the Library of Congress in Washington, DC
Nov. 20, 2004  Partnering with students from Dr. Rhonda Collier’s English class at Lipscomb University, and with VHP volunteers, interviews are conducted at the annual fall event, “Operation Stand Down” with veterans who are homeless or who have been homeless.
Early 2005  Segment promoting civilian supporters of war efforts, particularly activities in Nashville during World War II, begins.
Oct. 15, 2005  Partnering with students from Prof. Charmaine Lowe’s sociology class at Middle Tennessee State University, and with VHP volunteers, interviews are conducted at the annual fall event, “Operation Stand Down” with veterans who are homeless or who have been homeless.
May 1 to July 3, 2006  “Tiger Joe: One Man’s Story of World War II in Photographs” exhibit in Courtyard Gallery of NPL, in conjunction with Tennessee State Museum, featuring photographs and artifacts from Joe Thompson, Jr.

Summer 2006 Segment concentrating on women veterans – not just those who served during World War II or Korea – begins, including an informal partnership with the Nashville group of the Women Veterans Network.

Oct. 2006 Interviews begin to be routinely recorded in a digital format. Audiocassette tapes are no longer used, except in special circumstances.

Oct. 13-14, 2006 VHP volunteers conduct interviews at the annual fall event, “Operation Stand Down” with veterans who are homeless or who have been homeless.

Jan. 2007 Segment concentrating on Vietnam War begins.

Sept. 15, 2007 In conjunction with Nashville Public Television, the library hosts a special preview showing of documentary filmmaker Ken Burns’ program, The War, featuring segments of the film along with analogous stories and excerpts from the Veterans History Project, including a general overview of the project at the Nashville Public Library.

Oct. 15, 2007 VHP volunteers conduct interviews at the annual fall event, “Operation Stand Down” with veterans who are homeless or who have been homeless.

Apr. 12, 2008 Book talk by Tom Delvaux, author of Four Stars in the Window, and two of the four Powell brothers: Kenneth and Delmar.

Oct. 18, 2008 VHP volunteers conduct interviews at the annual fall event, “Operation Stand Down” with veterans who are homeless or who have been homeless.

May 20, 2009 Nashville Public Library hosts a showing of the film, Ask Not, about homosexuals in the military, as part of the Independent Lens film series in association with Nashville Public Television. An informational table is set up for the Veterans History Project, in an effort to encourage participation in the project by gay/lesbian veterans.

Oct. 17, 2009 VHP volunteers conduct interviews at the annual fall event, “Operation Stand Down” with veterans who are homeless or who have been homeless.

July 3, 2010 Segment concentrating on wars in Iraq and Afghanistan begins, launched with an “Open House” event.

Oct. 15, 2010 Nashville Public Library Veterans History Project Coordinator, Linda Barnickel, along with Rachel Mears and Monica Mohindra of the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress, and James Still, local veteran and participant in the Nashville Public Library’s Veterans History Project, speak on a panel at the American Folklore Society’s annual meeting, held in Nashville.

Jan. 2011  20th anniversary of the beginning of the Persian Gulf War – publicity seeking VHP participants

May 2011  Press release observing Armed Forces Day, encouraging participation

May 17, 2011  NPL participates in Congressman Jim Cooper’s first annual Veterans Workshop event

Sept. 11, 2011  Observance of 10th anniversary of the 9/11 Terrorist attacks

Nov. 3-4, 2011  Participate in annual Operation Stand Down event.

Nov. 11, 2011  Publicize VHP at Veterans Day event hosted by U.S. Military Veterans Motorcycle Club at Cadillac Ranch restaurant following Veterans Day Parade

Jan. 2012  NPL marks 10 years of involvement in the Veterans History Project

May 2012  Participate in Congressman Jim Cooper’s Veteran’s information fair, to promote VHP

May 2012  Promote VHP at Gen. Colin Powell book talk event

August 2012  Formal conclusion to the Veterans History Project at Nashville Public Library

Biographical/Historical Sketch
Motivated by a desire to honor our nation's war veterans for their service and to collect their stories and experiences while they are still among us, the United States Congress created the Veterans History Project. The authorizing legislation received unanimous support and was signed into law by President William Jefferson Clinton on October 27, 2000. Public Law 106-380 calls upon the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress to collect and preserve audio- and video-taped oral histories, along with documentary materials such as letters, diaries, maps, photographs, and home movies, of America's war veterans and those who served in support of them.

The Veterans History Project covers World War I, World War II, and the Korean, Vietnam, and Persian Gulf wars, and was expanded to include veterans of the contemporary conflicts in Afghanistan and Iraq. It includes all participants in those wars—men and women, civilian and military. It documents the contributions of civilian volunteers, support staff, and war industry workers as well as the experiences of military personnel from all ranks and all branches of service—the Air Force, Army, Marine Corps, and Navy, as well as the U.S. Coast Guard and Merchant Marine.

The Special Collections Division (Nashville Room) of the Nashville Public Library became an official partner of the American Folklife Center's Veterans History Project in October of 2001. The Division’s participation in the project consists of conducting interviews with local veterans and others who served in support of war efforts, and serving as a repository for these interviews. The Division has also collected documentary materials, such as letters, diaries, scrapbooks, maps, memoirs, and photographs, as a participant in this project. Most of these materials have been retained in the collections of the Special Collections Division.
Biographical information about participants in the project has been forwarded to the Library of Congress to be included in their National Registry of Service (available online at: http://www.loc.gov/folklife/vets/vets-registry.html).

Scope and Contents of the Collection

Materials in the collection include letters, memoirs, scrapbooks, unit histories and unit newsletters, photographs, oral interviews and transcriptions, maps, and publications. As stated in the enabling Federal legislation, the scope of the project concerns individuals' participation in the military or as civilians during World War I, World War II, Korea, Vietnam, and the Persian Gulf Wars. Later, the conflicts in Iraq and Afghanistan were also included. Individuals who served in the military during peacetime, who served during other military conflicts, or who were involved in activities such as the counterculture movement during the Vietnam Era, are generally excluded from this project. Persons who expressed interest in the project but whose experience did not fall into the scope of the project were encouraged to contribute their materials to the Special Collections Division general collections.

Collecting efforts have been centered upon gathering materials relating to Nashville and Davidson County residents. This includes individuals who resided in Davidson County either during their military service, or who have become Davidson County residents since that time. Some materials, especially those acquired early in the project, came from several areas outside of Davidson County, including Winchester, Carthage, Columbia, Oak Ridge, Lewisburg, Jackson, and elsewhere. From approximately October 2001 to March 2002, the Nashville Room was the only partner in the State of Tennessee; after additional partners in the state were added, the collecting emphasis became more localized. Persons outside of the Nashville Room's geographic emphasis were often referred to the Middle Tennessee Oral History Project at the Albert Gore Research Center in Murfreesboro, or other partner institutions.

In the summer of 2003, an informal partnership was arranged with Operation Stand Down, a local non-profit organization that assists veterans who are homeless, or who have been homeless. Initially, OSD staff member Nancy Moore was instrumental in arranging oral history interviews with veterans to be conducted by Nashville Room staff and volunteers periodically throughout the year. Volunteers and staff from the Nashville Room, along with trained student volunteers from nearby universities, interviewed several veterans who attended Operation Stand Down's fall events from 2003 to 2006. Library staff continued interviewing veterans from Operation Stand Down in subsequent years at OSD’s annual fall event. Interviews conducted through the cooperation of Operation Stand Down are so noted in the separate finding aid for oral histories.

More detailed scope and content information appears with individual series information elsewhere in this finding aid.

Disclaimer on Veterans History Project Collection Materials – (Historical Accuracy and Reliability in Personal Accounts)

The Library of Congress [and the Nashville Public Library] does not verify the accuracy of the accounts described herein by participants in the Veterans History Project.
Individual stories are voluntarily submitted to the Veterans History Project and are placed in the Library's permanent collections as received. These histories are the personal recollections and perspectives of participating individuals and are not intended as a substitute for an official record of the federal government or of military service. Organization/Arrangement of Materials

The collection is organized into the following series:

I. World War I Series
II. World War II Series
III. Korean War Series
IV. Vietnam War Series
V. Persian Gulf War Series
VI. Afghanistan/Iraq Wars Series
VII. Other conflicts or Peacetime Series
VIII. Administrative Files

Within each series, materials are arranged alphabetically by participant. Materials for each participant are housed and subdivided by format, including manuscripts, photographs, oversize materials, and audio/visual materials.

Arrangement by format:

Manuscripts are arranged within each series alphabetically by the participant's last name.

Photographs are physically arranged by size. All photographs should be considered regular size unless noted; oversize and snapshots are filed separately and will be so indicated. Within regular and snapshot size photographs, materials are filed in series by war, thereunder alphabetically.

A superscript $^P$ in this finding aid indicates that none of the photographs for that individual are wartime images.

Although emphasis was placed on acquiring original photographs from wartime service, not all photographs are originals; many are copies. Some materials are prints from scanned images, and vary widely in quality, ranging from low resolution scans printed on standard weight office paper with a color inkjet printer, to high resolution archival quality prints on archival paper using a continuous tone printer and archival inks. Some items, when designated as an NPL scan, were scanned by NPL staff on an Epson Expression 1640XL scanner, at a resolution from 400 to 600 dpi (depending on its size) and saved as .tif files using Photoshop software. When NPL scans were printed, they were printed as continuous tone photographs using Fuji archival donor and paper on a Fuji Pictrography...
Photographs that are designated as “copy photographs” are generally second-generation photographs; their quality varies considerably as well, though most are amateur reproductions of original photographs, created by taking a photograph of a photograph.

Negatives are arranged by series, veteran name, and number. Some negatives may be numbered consistently with photographic prints; others may be numbered in a separate series, with cross references to print numbers. Negatives are restricted to staff use only unless no print exists. Negatives should not be removed from sleeves under any circumstances.

Oversize materials will be indicated with their location in the finding aid. Generally, the items will be housed in oversize boxes or drawers, and within a numbered folder in each box or drawer.

Audio/visual materials, including interviews recorded on audiocassette, are subdivided by A/V format, and arranged numerically in order of receipt thereunder.

Transcripts and indexes of oral interviews, when available, are arranged numerically according to tape number, when originally recorded on audiotape. Transcripts and indexes of interviews recorded in digital format only will be arranged alphabetically.

Digital interviews are arranged alphabetically by last name. Formats may include .cda or “standard format” (like a music CD); .wav ; and/or .mp3. Some interviews were originally recorded in digital format; others were digitized from original analog audiocassette recordings. Transcripts to accompany interviews, regardless of format, are filed numerically (see individual details in this finding aid). In some cases, the .wav files for digitized-from-analog materials are retained off-site by the vendor who performed digitization services. In other instances, .wav files were given to the Library on a hard drive at the time of digitization. Researchers shall only have access to materials designated as “Use Copies” and these will typically (as of 2011) be in .mp3 format. Researchers are strictly prohibited from making their own copies of any audio recordings. Inquire with library staff to learn more about options for obtaining audio copies and/or alternative means of access.

If an individual participated in more than one conflict, their information may be listed under all conflicts in which they served.

Published books donated by participants in the project will be found in our main online catalog. Individuals donating only publications are not included in this finding aid.

PHYSICAL LOCATION (Note to Staff):
Processed collections, including manuscripts, photos, negatives, oversize boxes, and transcripts: Most processed materials relating to the Veterans History Project will be found in Range 2, Sections 6 & 7, in the workroom.
Oversize Drawer L-2 - located in the map room, in the drawer labeled "Veterans History Project”. Not to be confused with Oversize Box, which is housed with other VHP manuscript materials in workroom, as above. Oral History Tapes: Reference/use copies (labeled as “copy 2) of oral histories on cassette are located in the Special Collections Center. Master copies (labeled as “copy 1”) which are not for research use, are located in the Nashville Room workroom, Range 3, Sections 7 & 8. Audio/visual materials: Video tapes, film, compact discs and similar materials are housed in the Special Collections Center, near the use copies of audiocassettes. Digital and digitized oral history interviews: Use copies in MP3 format on CD are housed in the Special Collections Center with other digital interviews from other projects. Filed alphabetically by project, thereafter alphabetically by last name of interviewee. Unprocessed materials: Unprocessed materials are generally housed on the shelves near the “review area” in range 1 section 2. At times, they may be on the VHP Coordinator's work cart. When a large quantity of materials are unprocessed, there will be a separate list maintained of materials awaiting processing.

Restrictions
Restrictions on Access: In library use only. Available by appointment. Some items may be protected by donor restriction, or access may be limited due to preservation concerns. Negatives require staff approval before viewing by patrons. Participant files of the Administrative Series are restricted to staff use only.

Restrictions on Use and Reproduction: Some items may be protected by donor restriction, copyright law, or reproduction may be prohibited for preservation reasons.

Associated and Related Material
Associated Material: Some participants in this project also participated in the Tennessee World War II Veterans Survey Project (Record Group 237), housed at the Tennessee State Library and Archives.

Related Material: The Thomas W. Southall Papers, 1939-1993, are held by the Special Collections Division of the Nashville Public Library and document Southall’s experiences building radio transmitters in Germany in the early 1950s, as well as music and entertainment for GIs at the same place and time. The collection also includes audio recordings from his family and a USO performance in Hue, Vietnam, when he was stationed there during the Vietnam War.

Separated Material
Some individual items may have been separated in the course of processing; separation notices have been used.

Other Finding Aids
A separate finding aid which includes interview summaries and approximate length of interview, arranged alphabetically by participant, is available for oral histories. A “Finding Aid at a Glance” provides an overview of the entire collection arranged by war, branch of service, and format. A finding aid for some special interest categories, such as women, African-Americans, prisoners-of-war, and other groups, is available. A finding aid specific to World War II containing branch of service, theatre, unit, type of duty, and battles or station is also available.

Detailed Description of the Collection

Series Abstract/Description:
The largest holdings within the World War I portion of the Veterans History Project Collection include letters written to George O'Bryan Trabue during his service stateside and in France with Battery C, 142nd Field Artillery. He came from a prominent Nashville family, and letters from his parents, William D. and Lucinda Trabue, his siblings, and his uncle Charles, give details about life in Nashville during the war. Letters from friends Ralph Culbert Jones, of Battery E, 114th Field Artillery, and Percy Young, who served in the 318th Field Artillery stateside, and transferred to the 258th Aero Squadron, later deployed in France, give a soldier's perspective of training, officers, camp routine, recreational activities, and life near the front in France.

Also noteworthy in the World War I portion of the collection is a diary kept by Hunter McDonald, Sr. during his service stateside and in France with the 135th Aero Squadron of the Army Signal Corps; letters written by Hugh Solomon Sr. to his family near Kelso, Tenn. while he was serving in the 165th Infantry, 42nd Division in France; and an oral interview with Alice Mikel Duffield, who served as an Army nurse at Camp Pike, Ark. near Little Rock, Ark. At 105 years of age, she provides detailed recollections about growing up in the coal mining district near Fort Smith, Ark. in the early 1900s, as well as her experiences in nurses training, and her service in the Army. Although never serving overseas, she cared for injured returning soldiers and ill servicemen during the flu epidemic of 1918, including some African-American troops.

Series II. World War II series, 1936- , 4.5 cu. ft.

Series Abstract/Description:
The largest portion of the Veterans History Project collection (as of September 2005) concerns World War II, containing a wide variety of materials and formats relating to many aspects of the military service and civilian homefront life during the war. This segment of the collection is especially strong in photographs and other materials which document the stories of Nashvillians who served in the Army Air Forces, in all major theatres of operation.

The most sizeable collection of such materials includes nearly 600 photographs taken when off-duty by Joe Thompson, Jr. while serving as a reconnaissance pilot in Europe during World War II. They document his experiences and those of his comrades in the 67th and 109th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadrons of the 9th Air Force, and include airbase scenes; candid portraits of American pilots and ground personnel at leisure; civilians in England, France, and Belgium; aircraft and wrecks; scenes of Army infantry and armor in camp or advancing; scenic landscapes and street scenes including some taken of fought-over villages and streets; and a variety of similar images. These photographs are supplemented by a series of interviews in 2005 with Thompson by Nashville Room volunteer Alice Swanson, in which Thompson provides commentary on his photographs, and recalls many of his military experiences. Earlier interviews with Thompson conducted by Lucas Boyd around 1995 are a photograph-by-photograph narration of selected images, in preparation for an exhibit at Montgomery Bell Academy, which was later adapted by the Tennessee State Museum. Thompson’s materials also include over 100 aerial reconnaissance photographs, a written memoir, and other items. A separate finding aid for his materials contains additional information.

Morris Levine served in the Army Air Corps and as a Judge Advocate in Karachi, India, part of the China-Burma-India (CBI) Theater of operations. His materials include maps, military records, a 1942 diary, documents relating to Jewish services and celebrations, Karachi newspapers, and a variety of other items. Over 500 snapshots and negatives document a wide variety of scenes and activities relating to Levine’s service. A substantial portion of the collection shows troops on base, visiting officers, military vehicles and equipment, and related military subjects. A few images show Jewish religious services on base and a military funeral. Many other images show soldiers engaged in recreational activities, including an athletic competition, taking camel rides, seeing the sights, and spending time at the beach. One group of photographs shows the festivities during the crossing of the equator by the T.S.S. Katoomba. There are also a large number of photographs of the local Indian population, including street scenes, vendors, an outdoor dentist, and scenic images of Indian landscapes and animals, including two trips to the Himalayas.

A large collection of approximately 300 letters written by Willis Spragins “Bill” Graham to his wife, Katherine form a nice compliment to Levine’s materials. Bill (also referred to in his letters as “Grimey” or “Grimer”) and Katherine (also known as “Rena,” or “Winero”), married on May 2, 1942, in their hometown of Memphis, Tenn. and less than a month later, Bill was inducted into the military. Bill Graham wrote almost daily throughout his period of service from the middle of 1942 until his return home at the end of 1945. Before he was sent overseas, Graham’s first duty sent him to Ft. Oglethorpe, Georgia, where he wrote about the Women’s Army Corps and observed visits from Col. Oveta Culp Hobby and President Franklin Delano Roosevelt. In 1943, he was assigned to the Fourth Ferrying Command, based in Memphis. For a short time in Mar. 1944, he was in Jackson, Tenn. then was sent to Greensboro, North Carolina (June-Sept. 1944) in preparation for his overseas assignment. For the duration of his service, he was stationed primarily in New Delhi, India, serving in Army public relations, writing for the Hump Express and other papers, and performing other duties. He was part of the Air Transport Command in the 1300\textsuperscript{th} and 1306\textsuperscript{th} Base Units. His travels also took him at times to Karachi, Bombay, Agra, and Calcutta, among other locations. As a journalist, Graham had both the time and talent to write lengthy, detailed letters home, and they are a rich resource about life in the China, Burma, India (CBI) theater. Although specific to his own experiences in India, Graham’s letters also serve as a window on popular culture in the World War II American army. His letters contain descriptions of the living conditions of both soldiers on base, as well as local Indian civilians; Indian customs and traditions, including religion; souvenir shopping and local merchants; recreational activities; tourism of sites like the Taj Mahal and the Buddh Gaya; Graham’s personal opinions about war news and various subjects; informal reviews of books and films; and a description of attending a party at the Maharajah’s in February 1945. He also occasionally mentions civilian aides (both Indian and American) and female journalists in the office and on base. In addition, through his responses to his wife’s letters, the reader can also gain a sense of conditions and issues on the homefront, back in Memphis. Bill Graham repeatedly expresses his affection for his wife, and his longing and desire to return home. His later letters cover such subjects as the death of President Roosevelt; the atomic bombing of Japan; VE and VJ Days; and the signs of political instability in several Asian countries. At one point, he even predicts an atomic Third World War due to the political and military conditions at the close of World War II. Katherine Graham published many excerpts from Bill’s letters in 2006 in a book entitled: \textit{Til We Meet Again: A Soldier’s Love Letters from India}. Her book also provides additional biographical information about herself, her husband, and their wartime experiences at home and overseas. Numerous photographs are also included in the book.

A wide variety of materials including numerous greeting cards, letters, and photographs document the service of Edward E. O’Connor Jr. in the Army Air Force.
Many cards and letters written to and from him during his service are significant for the information they contain about homefront life and life on stateside air bases. These materials are especially notable for the story they tell during the anxious month when O’Connor was reported missing near the Austria/Yugoslavia border in April 1944, and when news of his return to American lines was received in May. Snapshots taken of and by Edward E. O’Connor Jr. show his family and relatives in Nashville, Tenn.; scenes at various military bases in Florida and the western U.S.; airstrips in North Africa and Italy, as well as local civilians and allied military personnel; scenes of aircraft, especially B-24s including some photographs of nose art, especially O’Connor’s own plane, “Hubba Hubba;” and a variety of other scenes on and off base. A colored pencil drawing of the nose art for “Hubba Hubba” is in the back of his “Edward E. O’Connor Jr. – Snapshots” album, from which most photographs have been removed.

Floyd Melvin Hooper was a tail gunner aboard the B-25 “Coral Princess,” serving with the 105th Observation Squadron, later part of the 820th Bombardment Squadron (Medium), 41st Bombardment Group, 7th Air Force. His 83 snapshots include images of training early in the war when wooden dummy guns stood in for anti-aircraft guns, and when first aid training took place on a dog. Scenes include training activities on base and on maneuvers; a beach party, probably held near Langley Field, Virginia; and images of B-25 Mitchell bombers (some identified) and their crews on duty near the Gilbert Islands in the Pacific. One photograph is of a Japanese flag, captured by a low-diving American plane; the enemy flag fouled the engine, and upon its return to base, the airmen celebrated. It was believed to be the only enemy flag ever captured by an aircraft in flight.

In addition to the large quantity of Army Air Force materials, additional substantial holdings concerning World War II include 70 photographs taken circa 1943-1945 by Coast Guard sailor Victor Cooley. He served aboard the destroyer escort, USS Mosley (DE-321), one of several Navy vessels manned by Coast Guard crews. The Mosley served on patrol in the Mediterranean, primarily in the vicinity of Tunisia and French Morocco. Images show life aboard ship, including drills, deck guns, and refueling operations, and there are numerous, mostly unidentified photographs of crew members. There are several identified images of Cooley. Other photographs include recreational scenes at a beach or dune area, a few images of a Mediterranean city, and numerous photographs of sister ships in convoy with the Mosley, including identified images of: USS Stern (DE-187); USS Pride (DE-323); and the USS D.E. Campbell (D-70).

Seventy-four photographs from John Edwin Parchman show the pre-war Army in the vicinity of Schofield Barracks, Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii, circa 1936-1937. Many images are unidentified, but they are telling photographs of America's level of preparedness prior to its entry into World War II. They show a time when the Army still relied upon horses for mobility of artillery and weapons, and there are numerous photographs of weaponry which could easily be mistaken for World War I-era arms. There are a few images of Pearl Harbor, including the battleships Idaho and Pennsylvania. Photographs also show troops training and on parade; mingling with local females; and other images of life on and off base.

Jessie Wallace McNutt served in the Army as a dietician with the 100th General Hospital and the 77th Evacuation Hospital in Europe. She wrote her mother often while overseas, where she was stationed in England, France, Belgium and Germany, and was transferred to a hospital near the front lines during the Battle of the Bulge. Her letters are detailed and provide a vivid description of life overseas as a woman in military service from 1944 to 1945. Her oral history interview adds perspective on her experiences, and provides a contrast to the immediacy of her letters. Some details about her service, like her journey towards the front during the Battle of the Bulge, and a close call there, are included only in her interview.

Letters by James H. Neese, which he wrote to his parents and brother in Nashville, tell about his experiences in the Army infantry serving in Africa and Italy from 1943 to 1945. His letters are supplemented by an oral history interview.

Nine newsletters published by the Hayes Young Adult Sunday School Class of the City Road Chapel Methodist Church in Madison, Tenn. begin in late 1942 and conclude in the fall of 1945. Often running over ten pages per issue, they contain church news, information about church members serving in the military, jokes, inspirational writings, and similar content. They reveal the support of this group for the men and women of the armed forces during World War II, and demonstrate church involvement on the homefront during the war. Edward E. O’Connor Jr. and his wife Loraine attended this church, and their names are often mentioned.

Film footage (transferred to videotape) taken by William W. Dick and Miles R. Patterson show officers and men of the 745th Tank Battalion in camp, scenes of the English and French countryside, wreckage of German convoys, German prisoners, river crossings, tanks cutting through hedgerows in Normandy, and scenes in Aachen, Germany. The majority of the approximately 60 minute film is in color.

A training film entitled “Sonic Deception” was used by the U.S. Army during World War II to describe the concepts and general procedures associated with sonic deception, or the use of sound recordings to deceive the enemy. Alvin H. Raff served in such a unit, and his interview provides more details about this kind of military operation.

In addition to these materials, substantial holdings include over 150 oral history interviews. Particularly notable among these are interviews with Hugh Mott, who was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for his actions to defuse German explosives on the last intact bridge across the Rhine River at Remagen; Dorothy Richards Rand who was a member of the Women’s Army Corps, serving at Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Forces (SHAEF); Joseph O’Donnell, a Marine Corps photographer who took photographs of Hiroshima and Nagasaki just weeks after the atomic bombs were detonated, and who continues to suffer from radiation exposure; and Jerry Atkinson, who served with the Marine Corps and received so many wounds on Okinawa that he was awarded the Navy Cross and earned the nickname “The Sieve.” Other interviews, too numerous to enumerate here, include accounts from prisoners-of-war, concentration camp liberators, women in the military, volunteers with the Red Cross and other service organizations, front-line infantrymen, individuals in support, supply, and logistics, medical services, and a wide variety of military occupations, covering virtually all theaters and branches of service. Additional details about these interviews are provided in the “Interview Summaries” finding aid.

Hooper, Floyd Melvin. Army Air Corps, Pacific.
   Photographs - Snapshots:
   Holdings consist of 83 images, most of them snapshots taken while serving with the 105th Observation Squadron, later part of the 820th Bombardment Squadron (Medium), 41st Bombardment Group, 7th Air Force. They include images of training early in the war when wooden "dummies" stood in for anti-aircraft guns, and when first aid training took place on a dog. Scenes include training activities on base and on maneuvers; a beach party, probably held near Langley Field, Virginia; and images of B-25 Mitchell bombers (some identified) and their crews on duty near the Gilberts in the Pacific. Hooper served for a time, at least, as a tail gunner aboard the "Coral Princess." Snapshots are arranged into the following series:
   Training (photos #1-33)
   Beach Party (photos #34-56)
Bombers and Pacific Duty (photos #57-83)

Photographs - Snapshots: (shelved separately)
Holdings consist of over 550 photographs collected by Morris Levine during his service when he was primarily stationed in Karachi, India. These images document a wide variety of scenes and activities. A substantial portion of the collection shows troops on base, visiting officers, military vehicles and equipment, and related military subjects. A few images show Jewish religious services on base and a military funeral. Many other images show soldiers engaged in recreational activities, including an athletic competition, taking camel rides, seeing the sights, and spending time at the beach. One group of photographs shows the festivities during the crossing of the Equator by the T.S.S. Katoomba. There are also a large number of photographs of the local Indian population, including street scenes, vendors, an outdoor dentist, and scenic images of Indian landscapes and animals, including two trips to the Himalayas.

The photographs are arranged into topical series and subseries as follows:

Before India
- Portraits, Levine (#1-9)
- Stateside locations (#10-12)

Photographs - Snapshots:
Holdings consist of 214 snapshots taken of and by Edward E. O'Connor Jr. Images show his family and relatives in Nashville, Tenn.; scenes at various military bases in Florida and elsewhere in the states; airstrips in North Africa and Italy, as well as local civilians and allied military personnel; scenes of aircraft, especially B-24s, including some photographs of nose art, especially O'Connor's own plane, "Hubba Hubba;" and a variety of other scenes on and off base. Snapshots were removed from three albums and one scrapbook; original order was retained. The original albums have been retained and are shelved separately. Some photographs, mostly of family, remained in place in the "Edward E. O'Connor Jr. Snapshots" album and are so noted within the collection. A colored pencil drawing of the nose art for "Hubba Hubba" is drawn on the inside back cover of the "Edward E. O'Connor Jr. Snapshots" album. Additional details relating to the organization and processing of these photographs can be found in the finding aid located in front of the first envelope of O'Connor's snapshots.

Videotape: VHP Video #5 – "Four Days in August"
This short documentary piece, produced by Demetria Kalodimos of WSMV-TV (Channel 4) in Nashville in 1990, shows Joe O'Donnell and some of his photographs taken at Hiroshima shortly after the atomic bomb blast in August 1945, interspersed with newsreel footage from other sources. O'Donnell vividly describes the devastation he saw – not just on the landscape, but to an entire people. (Total time approx. 8 min.).

Manuscripts: Military records, 1936-1946.
Photographs - Snapshots: Holdings consist of 74 photographs taken circa 1936-1937 in the vicinity of Schofield Barracks, Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii. Many images are unidentified, but they are telling photographs of America's level of preparedness prior to its entry into World War II. They show a time when the Army still relied upon horses for mobility of artillery and weapons, and there are numerous photographs of weaponry which could easily be mistaken for World War I-era arms. There are a few images of Pearl Harbor, including the battleships Idaho and Pennsylvania. Photographs also show troops training and on parade; mingling with local females; and other images of life on and off base. The photographs are arranged into topical series as follows:

Portraits (photos #1-16)
Groups (photos #17-23)
Parade, drill & training (photos #24-39)
Equipment (photos #40-52)
Aircraft (photos #53-60)
Ships (photos #61-64)
Scenes (photos #65-69)
Humor (photos #70-74)

- Videotape: VHP Video #4 - "Sonic Deception"

A videotape of a training film produced by Army Pictoral Service, Signal Corps, c. 1945. This film describes the concepts and general procedures associated with sonic deception, or the use of sound recordings to deceive the enemy. The film has three main segments. The first portion is a dramatization which shows German outposts reporting sounds of enemy movements to headquarters, and the response of German forces to this information. The second segment (11:50) outlines the purpose, training, equipment, organization and activities of sonic deception units, with many scenes filmed at Pine Camp, NY where these units were trained. The final segment (20:24) reexamines the earlier dramatization, showing the steps taken by the American sonic deception unit to mislead the Germans, and its results. (Total time approx. 28 min.).

Series Abstract/Description:

Materials include letters, photographs, oral interviews and transcripts, military records, excerpts from scrapbooks, and one videocassette. These materials include some photocopies. Contents are also useful for examination of the Cold War era, as not all individuals who participated in this project served in the country of Korea during active hostilities.

The most extensive materials (as of January 2008) within the Korean War portion of the Veterans History Project Collection include letters sent home almost every day from Jack Davis, who served with the First Regiment, First Marine Division near the "Punchbowl" in Korea. His materials also include transcripts of these letters, as well as others written to his brother which are not included in their original form. A videocassette of footage originally filmed in January 1952 by Davis shows a winter camp, an artillery crew in action, a drive along a twisting road in a convoy, and scenes at a supply depot. Still photographs included on the videotape show images of the countryside, soldiers at rest, a winter camp, a soldier escorting prisoners, infantry moving out single file along a road, and camp scenes. An oral history interview with Davis is also part of this collection.

Another significant collection of letters and related materials are from Granville R. Solomon, Jr.. He was drafted into the Army in early 1951, was temporarily assigned to the 101st Airborne Division during training at Camp Breckinridge, Kentucky, and then sent overseas to Korea in late August 1951. He was wounded in November 1951 while serving near the 38th Parallel while a member of Company L, 8th Cavalry, 1st Division. He wrote to his mother, Lorraine (Lyle) Solomon in Nashville, Tenn. on a frequent basis. His letters are frequent and detailed. He tells about the routine and hardships of training camp, including discipline, food, weapons training, and living conditions. He describes his duties and responsibilities in Korea, makes frequent requests for items from home (especially food), and tells in some detail about living conditions, supplies, and to some extent, combat actions. There is a gap in his letters from Jan. through April 1952, but they resume in May 1952, when he was recovering in an Army hospital at Fort Benning, Georgia. His letters are supplemented by 14 photographs, and a videotaped interview about his experiences conducted by his grand-niece, Jennifer Bennett, around Nov. 2000.

Photographs taken by Bill Goodman who served as a Marine Corps combat photographer with the First Marine Division in both South and North Korea in 1951 include candid scenes of soldiers in camp and on the march; American tanks, trucks and equipment on the move and damaged by enemy fire; combat scenes including tanks and infantry on the attack, a rocket team in action, and a flamethrower in use; American and North Korean casualties, including a scene of hundreds of North Korean bodies in a valley; military religious services; operations in the division headquarters photo section; winter scenes of troops on the move; and Korean civilians and street scenes. Locations include scenes in and around Pusan, Yanguee, events during "Operation Punchbowl," and unidentified locations in North and South Korea.

Series Abstract/Description:
Materials include oral interviews, occasionally supported by military documents, photographs, or other related materials. Some items are photocopies. The Vietnam War Series of the Veterans History Project Collection includes materials relating to Nashville area residents and veterans who served in the military or supported the war effort as civilians. Contents are also useful for examination of the Cold War era, as not all individuals who participated in this project served in the Vietnam theatre of operations. Many individuals also continued their service after the Vietnam War and their narratives can be useful for study of the armed forces in the decades after Vietnam.

The majority of the materials acquired thus far (as of November 2009) are interviews conducted with veterans from 2002 to 2008. Snapshots donated by Marion F. “Sonny” Smith document jump training and a jungle school operated by the 173rd Airborne Brigade (Separate) in 1966 and 1967 near Bien Hoa. Snapshots of Orman Eugene “Gene” Waller of the 374th Tactical Airlift Wing show mostly airmen at leisure and sight-seeing, but include some photographs of negotiations with the North Vietnamese in Hanoi in November 1974; North Vietnamese prisoners being transported in February 1973; and a High Altitude Low Opening (HALO) jump over Koke Thiem, Thailand in May 1973. His materials also include a DVD about tactical airlift operations featuring the C-130 Hercules aircraft, entitled: “The Way It Is: The Tactical Airlift Story” (approx. 53 min.) followed by a shorter film (approx. 15 min.) entitled: “A-10 Thunderbolt II” about the specialized tank-killing aircraft built by Fairchild Industries. No dates of either film are provided, but they appear to be from the mid-1970s. Other materials in the Vietnam War series include a videocassette containing footage of unknown provenance which appears to have been shot in Vietnam, possibly at an airbase. Originally shot on color Super8 movie film, and transferred to videotape circa 2000, scenes include soldiers relaxing on base; views of the countryside and village scenes shot from a moving vehicle; a variety of aircraft arriving and departing; and scenes of children at an orphanage or school, including a dance performance.

Some interviews, beginning in the fall of 2003, were conducted with the assistance of Operation Stand Down, a local non-profit organization that assists veterans who are homeless, or who have been homeless. A number of these individuals were veterans from the Vietnam era.

Arrangement: Alphabetical by veteran’s last name.

- Manuscripts: Photo processing envelopes from Vietnam
- Snapshots: Approximately 138 snapshots, mostly black and white, but some in color, taken between March 1968 and September 1968 during Durrett’s service in Vietnam. Images, some with captions on the back, show scenes on base and in barracks, electronic equipment, military vehicles, Vietnamese women (“mamasans”), friends in the military, especially scenes at leisure, views of the Vietnamese countryside and Saigon, and scenes shot from the audience during a performance in Vietnam by Grand Ole Opry comedian, Elmer Fudpucker and singer Liza Jane Taylor, and other musicians. Identified locations include Tan Son Nhut and Nha Trang. Arranged generally in chronological order, and identified by the designation of roll and frame number (as found in negatives). A small series of prints which have no accompanying negatives appear at the end and are numbered sequentially.
- Negatives: Many of the snapshots described above have matching 35mm negatives. In a few rare instances, there may be no print to match a negative. RESTRICTION: Negatives for staff use only.
- Slides: Approximately 248 color slides, from June 1967 to April 1969 showing scenes on base and in barracks, military vehicles and aircraft, Vietnamese women (“mamasans”), friends in the military, especially scenes at leisure, views of the Vietnamese countryside and towns, and a number of images of musical performances, shot from the audience, including a Vietnamese band and a performance by Grand Ole Opry comedian, Elmer Fudpucker, singer Liza Jane Taylor, and other musicians and performances. Identified locations include Vung Tau, Tan Son Nhut, and Nha Trang. Slides are housed in sheets, and annotations by Durrett often form a running story line, from slide-to-slide and phrase-by-phrase. Slides are housed in sheets by roll, generally in chronological order as organized by donor, and numbered in continuous sequence by library staff during processing. The final page contains slides which appeared out of sequence. Some slides were missing at time of processing and have been so identified within the collection.

Photographs - Snapshots: photocopies of photographs taken by Paladin while in Vietnam. Most photocopies are of good quality; all have identification information and/or captions on the back. Though copies, they nevertheless provide a helpful visual history of the conditions and operations of the 173rd Airborne Brigade (Separate) during 1966-1967. Some images may be available as photographic prints as part of the Marion "Sonny" Smith collection within the Vietnam Series of VHP.
Subjects of Paladin's photocopied photographs include: Bien Hoa airbase; soldiers at leisure, in camp, at base, and on patrol; helicopters; a children's hospital; chaplain and religious activities; tunnels; jungle defoliated by the use of Agent Orange; soldier "graffiti" on vehicles and helmets; a scout dog used by the military; Christmas truce; and scenes from the following military Operations: Aurora II; Toledo; Atlantic City; Winchester; Canary-Duck; Big Springs; Junction City; and War Zone D. Notable individuals include: Maj. Gen. Richard Stilwell awarding his son the Combat Infantryman's Badge; entertainer Martha Rae; a few images of Paladin and friend and jungle school instructor, "Sonny" Smith.

Photographs - Snapshots:
Holdings consist of 98 black and white snapshot photographs, most, if not all, taken by Gene Paladin and collected by Marion F. "Sonny" Smith. Scenes include soldiers of the 4th Battalion, 503rd Infantry, 173rd Airborne Brigade (Separate) in 1966 and 1967 in Vietnam, especially in the area near Bien Hoa. Many scenes are at the location of a special jungle training school, located near Bien Hoa. Images include candid portraits and scenes of soldiers at leisure; but also include scenes during parachute jump training, especially jumps taken from a training tower; jungle training scenes, including an area designed to look like a Viet Cong camp; soldiers wearing camouflage during their jungle training; discovery of Viet Cong weapons caches; a wounded comrade in the hospital; "Operation Revenge" a real mission taken in response to an ambush upon trainees by the Viet Cong; general scenes of life on base and in camp including military personnel, vehicles, supplies, living conditions, and similar subjects. A few images are of civilian village storefronts in Vietnam, particularly laundries. One photograph is of posters encouraging soldiers to take preventive measures against venereal disease, next to an illustration of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers designed to aid U.S. soldiers in recognition of the enemy.

Slides: (shelved separately from rest of collection).

CAUTION & HEALTH ADVISORY: Some slides have inactive mold still present!
SPECIAL HANDLING INSTRUCTIONS: Researchers and staff should take adequate steps to protect themselves from possible release of mold spores into the air. Recommended protective measures include wearing a protective mask; wearing latex or similar protective gloves; washing hands immediately after handling mold-contaminated materials, before handling any other uncontaminated items, including uncontaminated items from the same collection. Avoid getting mold-contaminated materials damp or wet, whether from wet hands, wet clothing, perspiration, beverages, or other sources.

Slides include 163 images from February 1971 through June 1971, most of them taken by Bob Tuke, during his tour of duty with the Combined Action Company 2-4 of the U.S. Marines. Scenes include:
Slides #1-23: (Feb. 1971) - arrival in Vietnam and DaNang, landscape scenes; Marine compound, barracks, buildings, etc.; Buddhist temple at An My;
Slides #24-49: (Feb.-Apr. 1971) - Hieu Nhon district (aerial scenes); Hoi An village (ground); helicopters; Marine compound, including weapons; Vietnamese civilians;
Slides #50-80: (April 1971) - CAUTION! MOLD! - Korean Marine show; Bob Tuke with weapons, his desk and bunk, Cobra gunship attacking at night with flares and tracers;
Slides #81-109: (April - May 1971) - Tuke with .50 cal. machine gun; CACO 2-4 Stand Down ceremony; Vietnamese women and children; landscape scenes including bursting shell and Viet Cong burning a village at night;
Slides #110-141: (May 1971) - long distance shots of airplanes on tarmac; large black smoke cloud near airbase; city scenes in Hong Kong, including street scenes and images of ships, both civilian and U.S. Navy vessels, in the harbor;
Slides #142-163: (May-June 1971) - CAUTION! MOLD! - Vietnamese women, singers and dancers; countryside around Route 1, Republic of Vietnam; Buddhist temple at Dien Ban; countryside near DaNang; construction of Buddhist monument, DaNang; airliner or “Freedom Bird” that flew Tuke out of Vietnam.

SPECIAL PHYSICAL ARRANGEMENT: Slides #1-49 and #81-141 are believed to be uncontaminated and are housed in Slide Box 1. Slides #50-66 (which have been exposed to mold, but do not appear to be contaminated) and Slides #67-80 and #142-163 (mold damage; inactive mold still present!) are housed in Slide Box 2. Both Slide Boxes are housed together in a single larger box, which is shelved separately within the Veterans History Project Collection.

Videotape: VHP Video #3 - "Memories"
Originally shot on color Super 8 movie film, a product which did not become publicly available until 1965. Transferred to videotape, with music added, around 2000. The footage on this videotape appears to have been filmed in or near Vietnam, on what appears to be an airbase. Scenes include soldiers relaxing on base, views of the countryside and villages shot from a moving vehicle, a variety of aircraft landing and departing, and scenes of children at an orphanage or school, including a dance performance. (Total time approx. 30 min. Index available in front of Transcript Box 1).

Manuscripts: (3 folders)
1. Identification cards (1971-1987)
2. Photocopy of original layout of photograph album, with annotations by Waller and NPL staff in 2008
3. Photograph album (photographs removed)

Oversize Drawer L-2, Folder 9:

Photographs – Snapshots:
Holdings consist of 86 color snapshots, plus one 8x10 black and white print (filed with larger photographs) which document Waller’s experiences in Thailand, Cambodia, and Taiwan from 1972-1974 during the Vietnam War. Waller worked as a loadmaster on a C-130 Hercules transport plane. The snapshots are arranged based upon their original order in Waller’s photograph album and have been assigned numbers by library staff for ease of retrieval and referral. See Manuscripts for the original album and photocopies of the original arrangement within the album.

Perhaps most significant among these snapshots are a few images (photos #10-13, #25) of U.S. negotiations with the North Vietnamese in Hanoi during November 1974, where Waller was present. One of the individuals photographed was one of the chief interrogators at the infamous North Vietnamese prison compound known as the “Hanoi Hilton.” Other unrelated snapshots (photos #33-39) show North Vietnamese prisoners on the runway at Camp Evans, An-Toi, South Vietnam in February 1973. They are either embarking or disembarking from transport aircraft, and the activities are being supervised by officials from the Polish (Communist) Army. Most of these images are taken from inside the open bay of the aircraft. Another small series of photographs (photos #51-53, #58, #81) show High Altitude Low Opening (HALO) paratroopers about to make their jump over Koke Thiem, Thailand in May 1973, also taken from inside the open bay of the aircraft. The vast majority of the remainder of the snapshots show Waller and his friends at leisure, relaxing in their quarters, at the NCO Club, or sight-seeing, especially in Thailand. Some photographs show his living quarters and living conditions in barracks or apartments. Locations of photographs include: Utapao, Lopburi, Takhli, Koke Thiem, and Korat, Thailand; Phnom Penh, Cambodia; Taiwan; Hanoi, North Vietnam; Camp Evans, An-Toi, South Vietnam; Incirlik, Turkey; and Elmendorf, Alaska.

DVD: DVD #1 - ”The Way It Is: The Tactical Airlift Story” and “A-10 Thunderbolt II”

DVD created from a videotape including two different programs. The first, entitled, "The Way It Is: The Tactical Airlift Story" and produced by Aerospace Audio Visual Service for the Tactical Airlift Command of the U.S. Air Force, is about tactical airlift operations featuring the C-130 Hercules aircraft and includes scenes of cargo aircraft operations and personnel, including numerous interviews with airmen. They discuss various missions including flying in supplies, food, medical supplies, ammunition, evacuating casualties and dead bodies, and prisoners. (Color : approx. 53 min.). This is followed by a shorter film entitled: “A-10 Thunderbolt II” about the specialized tank-killing aircraft built by Fairchild Industries. (Color : approx. 15 min.) Scenes feature demonstrations of the A-10’s bombing technique and power against enemy armored forces, and highlights the 81st Tactical Fighter Wing based at Bentwaters in England. No dates of either film are provided, but they appear to be from the mid-1970s.

Series VII. Other Conflicts or Peacetime series, 2003-2011, .1 cu. ft.

Series Abstract/Description:

Materials in this series include interviews and items relating to individuals who served during peacetime or during periods of conflict other than those wars specified by the Library of Congress. As a general rule, items for this series were not directly solicited, but rather were added to the project in the course of gathering materials and interviews for other segments. Note that individuals who served during one of the major conflicts will be listed within that series, even if their service was not in an active theatre of hostilities (e.g. service during the Vietnam War, but stationed in Germany). Those persons serving during a war, as well as before or after it, will only be listed with that war (e.g. a person who enlisted in the 1980s and served through the Persian Gulf War, will be listed with Persian Gulf War).

Photographs: 7 envelopes of large photographs showing scenes with Kathy and/or Grady Cash, ca. 1972-1974 at Maxwell Air Force Base and in Turkey (photographs are numbered #46-59, see below)

Photographs - Snapshots:

Holdings consist of 238 snapshot photographs, most in color, of Kathy (Creager) Cash and her husband Grady. Both were in the Air Force. Images date from 1967 when Grady was at the Air Force Academy to 1995 when Kathy retired, and are arranged in rough chronological order. Scenes include formal settings, such as parades and ceremonies, as well as casual off-duty images. Many images are of nurses and other medical personnel in a medical office setting. Other photographs show Grady and/or Kathy in social settings including parties, being tourists, or at their residence. Images include photographs taken the day of the Cash's wedding, in Turkey.

Audio letters home: (shelved separately with VHP oral histories; on CD)
Sometimes accompanied by her husband, Grady, Kathy Cash sent these audio letters home to her parents in Morton, Illinois while serving in the medical field of the U.S. Air Force from 1973 to 1980, during which time she and her husband were stationed in Turkey, Greece, and the Azores, and took trips to Italy, Crete, Egypt, Kenya, and other places. Originally recorded on 27 audio cassette tapes, the recordings have been converted to digital .mp3 files. Researchers must use the digital recordings; access to the original audiocassettes is restricted to staff use only.

Subjects discussed in the recordings include her work as a nurse and health teacher, and other capacities on the medical staff of Air Force hospitals, especially in gynecological care, women’s health, and teaching; daily life and life abroad among other cultures; excursions as a tourist and sightseeing; food; her and her husband’s health; requests for items to be sent from the United States; treating casualties from a Venezuelan plane crash while stationed at the Azores; holidays; friends; Iranian evacuees; combating headlce; observing wildlife in Africa; teaching cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR); and a wide variety of other subjects. A rough outline of subjects, as created by Kathy Cash or her family, and which can be used as an index to the recordings, is filed in Manuscripts. Researchers are advised to use the 2006 NPL-produced transcript of these notes for ease of use.

Operation Stand Down 2003 student papers: Lipscomb University, Dr. Rhonda Collier's English class (fall 2003): "Am I My Brother's Keeper? The Community as Text." Students, mostly college freshmen, wrote about their experiences interviewing veterans at Operation Stand Down event, held November 1, 2003 at the Tennessee State Fair Grounds. Most papers contained a dual assignment: write a biography of the veteran, and write a more reflective piece about your own experience during the interview and why you chose to write your biography in the way you did.

The following staff have helped in this project by serving in administrative roles or by conducting interviews, aiding in processing, or otherwise facilitating various aspects of the project:

Linda Barnickel, Veterans History Project Coordinator, Mar. 2002-present
Ronnie Pugh, Librarian III
Kathy Bennett, Librarian III
Debbie May, Library Associate I

Nancy Moore, of Operation Stand Down, a non-profit agency in Nashville which assists veterans who are homeless or who have been homeless, was instrumental in assisting the Nashville Public Library in interviewing veterans aided by Operation Stand Down, beginning in the summer of 2003. Numerous staff members at Operation Stand Down have helped ensure the continuation of this partnership since Ms. Moore's departure. These individuals have included: Randy Ammons, Bill Burleigh, Joe Brown, J.C. Smith, and Mary Ross among others.

The following individuals have given generously of their time and expertise to serve as volunteers in this project. The existence of this collection, particularly the oral histories, would be impossible without their service.
